

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

George Paul Kles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Kles, died Tuesday morning at 1:30 at his parents' home on Broad street. The young man's death is an unusually pathetic occurrence and comes as a shock to this community, where he had lived all of his life. He was critically ill only a few days and the seriousness of his condition was not realized outside the family circle and by a few neighbors and friends.

When the service battery of the 13th Field artillery, in which he was enlisted as a mechanic, went south July 1, Mr. Kles was one of those who made the trip to Camp Buell. The excessive heat and peculiarly flavored water at the camp did not agree with him and he was allowed to return here. Even after he returned to Danielson he did not appear seriously ill, though he immediately went under a physician's care. Last week he became suddenly worse and by Saturday his condition was regarded as extremely critical, practically all hope of his recovery being abandoned after Sunday. His death, nevertheless, came as a distressing happening, his youth accentuating the loss that is felt by the public in general.

The flag on the state armory here was at half-mast Tuesday as a mark of respect to Mr. Kles, whose funeral services will be attended by members of the service battery.

A number of years ago Mr. Kles suffered a serious attack of illness and at the time his recovery was despaired of, though he rallied and eventually became, apparently, as well as the average person and was steadily engaged with the Larkin Reed company, with which firm he was associated at the time of his death, or so it was thought. He leaves a wife and a daughter, Miss Selma Kles. He was a member of Moriah lodge, A. F. and a member of Orient lodge, K. P. and of the Service Battery, 13th field artillery.

Two projects in which the public is interested are to be undertaken—the construction of the public comfort stations at the town hall property and the rebuilding of the footbridge over the Assawamuck river near the rear of the property. Appropriations for both have been made available at town meetings.

The bridge project has been held up by the high water in the river, due to the excessive rains of May and June, which brought a record fall of water for corresponding periods of the year. Work on the piers cannot be successfully undertaken until the water remains at its present level, but stream is now receding and advantage will be taken of the first opportunity to get at the job. First selectman John A. Gilbert said Tuesday, "If the water does not get down to a level low enough to permit of work being undertaken soon, temporary repairs will be made to the bridge so it can be used by pedestrians. It is expected that the reconstruction of the comfort stations, these are to be built across the driveway at the southerly side of the town hall building, being closed by the construction work. Work is continuing on the state aid highway being built on the town farm road, so-called, leading southward to Attawamuck to Dayville Four Corners. Grading has advanced at the present time to a point opposite the town farm property.

It is a matter of interest now, as the town approaches the end of its financial year, the end coming July 31, that there is a prospect of Killgore again showing a reduction in the tax rate, as was the case last year. With the prospect of escaping both a state and county tax during the coming financial year, it may be possible to further reduce the tax rate.

Collectors representing the strikers of the Aldrich Manufacturing company at Moosup are making regular weekly visits to Danielson to obtain contributions to add them in winning the strike. Aside from the fact that the strikers are being made to feel that the mill property of other companies, their work here is being done without protest from any one. It is of interest, however, to note that these strikers are working men who have stood a 22 1/2 per cent. cut over and above what the Moosup strikers have had to stand and are working five hours more each week than the Moosup strikers, who represent their chief grievance to be working conditions and a desire for recognition of their union.

At Moosup Tuesday, the strike situation remained deadlocked. The mill company did not make expected gains in the number of returned employees at work. Manifestly, it is going to be unprofitable to attempt operation of the big plant with less than a skeleton force of help, and this fact has brought the strike situation to its first real climax. It was stated Tuesday afternoon that the mill company will give the employees one more chance to return to work next Monday morning. If they refuse to accept the chance, the mill doors will be locked and months or even a year may elapse before they are opened for workers again. This is the ultimatum of the company, which under no circumstances will recognize a union.

This ultimatum has started Moosup and caused Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, pastor of All Saints' church and secretary between the strikers and the mill company officials for the past three weeks to declare Tuesday afternoon that he will urge the strikers, 90 per cent. of them members of his parish, to return to their work next Monday morning. That Moosup may be saved from the distress and suffering that must inevitably follow a strike that may extend through months and possibly for a year.

Father McCarthy has been an entirely neutral arbitrator up to this time, giving the strikers of his time to conference with the strikers and mill company officials and acting as a medium for an exchange of views in what has been a delicate situation.

His decision to advise the workers to go back to work was made Tuesday, the decision arrived at after he had exhausted all conceivable means of bringing about an adjustment of the situation and after personal interviews with scores of strikers and members of their families. His decision was made known Tuesday to the strike leaders, who were told that each and every man was to make his own decision as to what he should do.

It is understood that the strike has arrived at a crucial stage. This has led to the positive decision of a pastor who is beloved by Moosup as a whole, to throw his influence on the side of a quick adjustment of the situation. The very serious industrial difficulty, in an effort to save Moosup from incalculable financial losses, to be felt more or less by every resident of the community.

Father McCarthy is by no means intending to coerce workers into returning to their employment. He has made very clear that each and every one who has left the mill shall decide whether he will individually desire to do so. He is in possession of much information pertaining to the strike that is not known to the general person, this information gleaned from being in such intimate contact with it from its inception, and knowing what he does, he has decided that his advice to the workers who are members of his parish will be that they return to their employment next Monday.

The strike leaders, to whom he has been a great aid as a medium in keeping in touch with mill officials, are fully informed of his intention.

It may be reiterated here that the strike of 700 workers is not over wages, but in an effort to secure recognition of the union and to overcome grievances growing out of working conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gates, John Manley Chick Blanchard and Miss Anna Gates were buried out of a motor truck, which was overturned and less shaken up and injured, none serious when the big machine swerved off the state highway near the Shippee place at the foot of Wauregan hill and collided with a telephone pole, which struck the truck when the truck turned out to pass another machine. Blanchard suffered a scalp wound and a minor injury to his leg. Maher was lamed from his experience in the crash. The truck was damaged somewhat forward and was towed to Danielson.

The annual outing of McGregors' Women's Relief corps, McGregors' post, G. A. R. and Colonel Edward McGregors' Camp, Sons of Veterans, and their families is to be held at Wildwood park today (Wednesday).

Frank Young, of Bridgeport, is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Gardiner.

Mrs. Emma Warren will spend several days this week at Oakland Beach with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burrows.

Temperature of 90 degrees was registered by several thermometers in Danielson on Tuesday.

Members of the Missionary society of the Congregational church at Wauregan are planning a camping trip to Keegan's, the latter part of this month.

Harry Young and Mary Thompson have been spending a vacation at Oakland Beach.

An addition that will provide much accommodation, as usually are found in a parish house is to be built to the Congregational church, at the easterly end of the town hall building.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Norwich was here Tuesday to conduct a tuberculosis clinic at the health station in the town hall building.

Miss Florida Tetreault is attending the teachers' summer school at New Haven.

Mrs. Margaret McDermott is now at her home on High street, having sold the trip from St. Vincent's hospital at Worcester very well. Mrs. McDermott has been at the hospital for the past two months.

PUTNAM

Putnam has not yet solved the problem of collecting garbage. Upon application of Peter A. Gardner, city health officer, the common council has passed an ordinance whereby all householders are obliged to keep garbage in a non-leakable, odorless and tight receptacle. The ordinance is in effect and will be enforced by the health officer, who reports bad conditions in some sections of the city.

Tuesday was one of the hottest days of the summer. Thermometers on Main street crowded the 100 degree mark and business was practically at a standstill. Farmers are busy getting in a late crop of hay, the lateness due to the numerous rains of the past month.

At a special town meeting held in the municipal building, Monday evening, $30,000 was appropriated for an addition to the Israel Putnam school. L. H. Fuller acted as chairman. Mrs. Jane C. Warner, member of the town school committee, outlined the necessity for the addition, stating that the building was overcrowded, that in some rooms there were 40 to 50 pupils, when 30 to 35 is the standard, and that some of the children going to school were not being properly taught. It was imperative that more time be devoted to them. Mrs. Warner put the motion for the appropriation and the vote was passed without opposition. Byron D. Bugbee, Alexander Gilman, Ray Bosworth, Henry J. Thayer and Silas M. Wheelock were appointed a building committee. The plan of a proposed addition by Architect Phyllis Sunning of Danbury, was shown. The plan if adopted will give four additional rooms with extra room in the basement. A few weeks ago, deeds were passed whereby the town became the owner of the land to the south of the present school building. This is declared by members of the school committee a valuable acquisition to the school property as it assures the maintenance of a proper playground. The building committee is authorized to immediately have specifications drawn up and the contract for building submitted to bids. It is hoped to have the work started by September 1st. With the completion of the proposed addition the problem of caring for the increasing number of pupils will be taken care of for some years to come.

Rev. Charles Bedard, of St. Mary's church, also has plans under way for the enlargement of St. Mary's school and it is expected that building will be in progress at this school before long. When the thirty thousand dollars appropriated by the town is at hand for use is tentatively proposed to have this appear as a separate fund and a special budget and to make provision to have this debt liquidated in three to five years. There has been proneness in financing the town's affairs to make appropriations and then to hold in suspense the money until this method has caused the debt of the town to increase slowly until at present it has become a substantial burden. Many of the citizens interested in town affairs expressed the belief that it is time to call a halt in this regard and to make provision for liquidating each additional debt as soon as that debt accrues.

James Kent and children of New York are guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Kent, Church street. Miss Dorothy Kent is soon to sail for a few weeks' stay abroad.

Charles E. Dean and family are occupying the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock, at Pleasant View.

The Day Kimball hospital is crowded. There are at present twelve babies at the hospital. Nurses have quarters in the sun parlor. One of the urgent needs of the hospital is a home for nurses.

James Ryan of Pomfret is recovering from an operation for appendicitis at the Day Kimball hospital.

Charles L. Torrey was in Hartford Tuesday attending a meeting of the state board of education.

Walter J. Bartlett and family moved to Providence Monday.

Hiram Outley is building a new home on Killingly avenue.

A three pound bass left the waters of Reservoir lake by jumping into a boat. This was vouched for by three young men who are members of a camp. According to the story they tell they were rowing toward the shore. The boat was being towed along the shore by a man who had apparently swum from the approaching boat into shallow water was seen flopping about. After a number of minor fops the fish pulled off the major operation and was seen to be a bass. The passengers of the craft. The fish was shown to prove the story and it was weighed and found to be a few ounces less than three pounds.

At a meeting of Anselm Mayotte Post American Legion, held Monday night in the post's new quarters, plans for further fitting up the new rooms were discussed. A gift of books from the late William Harrison ("Souvenir") Taylor forms a nice base for a library and donations of books for the post library will be most acceptable. Pieces of furniture are also desired by the members.

With the thermometer crowding ninety in the shade, perhaps there is a reason why well meaning people should be in need of others. One sits on the piazza or under the old maple tree in the yard and enjoys what little breeze there is. It is an effort to bear the intense heat. But this is not the life of Miss Lassar, the Red Cross district nurse. From the remote limits of the north end to the extreme end of the Grove street section the district nurse has to trudge her weary way some thoughtful citizen stops a machine and takes her in. There is no complaint from this faithful worker among all classes of citizens. It is from her that the suggestion comes that a further effort should be made to complete the fund that would provide her an automobile. Interested people witness her efforts to cover the whole city on foot and now ask that the effort to procure the car for her need be.

The fund was started some months ago with a donation of $100. To this has been added perhaps seventy-five dollars, more through a benefit entertainment at the Victory theatre and a few small amounts from other sources. But the hundred and seventy-five dollars standing idle does not relieve the situation which came to his hands. It is apparent that with a speedy means of conveyance of her own she could do a much greater work with greatly lessened hardship to herself. A few dollars apiece from one hundred persons is all that would be required. Many infant lives are being saved every year and many poor families are receiving the district nurse's services. The work is one of the most important being carried on in this territory, yet there seems to be a proneness to forget that hot or cold, in sunshine and in rain, the devoted nurse has her duties to perform and that at present she is in a predicament. It is apparent that other than by hiking.

JEWETT CITY
By winning 8-3 from Danielson Sunday, Jewett City retained its lead in the Eastern Connecticut league. William's win over Moosup kept them in second place, and a large following of the local team are planning to go to Jewett City this week to help the locals stay on top. The next few games are of vital importance to the home boys and they need the support of the fans to help land the cup. Dan Crandall's Cycl Club orchestra, Ashland Casino tonight—adv.

Friday evening the Men's class of the M. E. church held their July business meeting in the auditorium of the church, with Mr. Gardner in the chair. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Wilber. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. The ushers of the past month were reappointed. It was decided that the next meeting, which will be held in September, will be held in the social committee will have full charge of the affair.

The social committee announced that at the September meeting stereopticon views of New England will be shown. After hundred views of Yellowstone National Park will be shown in the last week of September.

A committee reported that Lafayette Kinney was progressing favorably and that Rev. E. M. Anthony was able to be out.

The pastoral committee made a report that District Superintendent Rev. W. H. Bath of Norwich would have charge of the services here and in Bethel the last Sunday in July, which will be the first Sunday of Mr. Wilber's vacation. The pastoral committee will have full charge of the Bethel services the first two Sundays of August.

Following the reports of the various committees, the regular collection was taken up. The collection was then turned over to Mr. Wilber, toastmaster of the evening, who greeted the women visitors present on behalf of the men.

The following program was given amid enthusiastic appreciation and applause: Chorus singing, America, led by male quartet; When the Lord Calls His Own, ladies' quartet; Along the River of Time, We Glide, men's quartet; brief lecture, Money, Brother L. D. Howe; Something to Be Done, ladies' quartet; Nearer, My God, I Know That My Redeemer Lives, The Wayside Cross, men's quartet; brief address, Mormonism, Mr. Wilber.

Mr. Howe in discussing money made use of a collection of foreign and domestic coins and bills. The collection included Spanish, Continental, Confederate dollars, Russian rubles, and the little slips of rarely used, freshly minted currency. After the formal program the collection was examined by many present. Mr. Howe made known the fact that when there were established the state banks, precedents

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Doubly Feature Bill at the Strand
Thursday, Friday and Saturday.
Anita Stewart, the intangible, heads the list of players who appear in "Playthings of Destiny," the Associated First National Pictures attraction, which is coming to the Strand theatre for an engagement of three days, beginning Thursday.
Herbert Rawlinson, Walter McCall, Grace Morse and William V. Mong are a few of the best-known players having supporting parts in the production, and in addition the star company for first admiration with little Richard Headrick, the three-year-old boy, who made such a pleasing impression as the crippled child in "The Woman in the Moon."
"Playthings of Destiny" should be one of the most interesting pictures which this theatre has shown this season. The story upon which it is founded, "The Tornado," by Jane Murfin, is a dramatic as anything that has been written in the last decade.
The name of Paul Anthony Kelly as the scenario writer is a guarantee that the preparation of the story for picture-making has been done in a masterly way, and with Edwin Carewe directing the result is a foregone conclusion.
The companion feature will be Franklin Farnum, "The Fighting Grin." This is a vivid story of our great war with auto galore. There is not a dull minute throughout the entire length of this feature. A Selznick News complex the bill.
Here is a combination bill that is unbeatable.

Times Acting and Good Story Make "Your Best Friend" Real Film Treat at the Strand.
Mothers the world over will appreciate the trials and tribulations that beset Vera Gordon in her latest vehicle, "Your Best Friend," a Warner Brothers production which is being shown at the Strand theatre for the last time today.
The statement that "Your Best Friend" is a picture which includes the "best" of the screen is not an overstatement. For the film is so utterly different from the average run of cinema attractions that it at once captures the interest and holds it until the final scene. Miss Gordon typifies the mother who gives and loves and sacrifices for her children, when "Your Best Friend" is shown. To this respect her actions are universally applied to all mothers. But the story contains a deeper significance. It is a clean, wholesome plot, and in its simplicity it is a masterpiece of the right to society's ambitious daughters.
"Your Best Friend" tells the story of a widow who is disappointed in a modest home to a rich one. In her rich environment she sees her daughter-in-law recklessly spending her money. In addition to that furnished by her father-in-law she is given a large sum of money. The widow attempts to affectionately embrace her little niece, she is stopped by her rebellious daughter-in-law. These incidents and numerous others bring about a wealth of emotional scenes capably and effectively acted by Miss Gordon.
Belle Bennett, as the society crazed daughter-in-law, gives a flawless impersonation of her role. Harry Benham, Beth Mason, Stanley Price and Dore Davidson and the other members of the cast all do admirably. The picture has been ably produced by Harry Rapf, and the direction by Will Nigh is of the highest order. "Your Best Friend" is good, clean, and in appeal as broad as humanity itself.
A Jimmy Aubrey comedy and a Selznick News completes the bill.

Breed Theatre.
"A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," which is the special attraction at the Breed theatre for today, Thursday, Friday and Saturday answers every requirement for the very best class of entertainment.
It has distinguished authorship; it is based on a novel of fame of which has spread through two hemispheres. It has been produced with a lavish expenditure that permitted the filling of all the great spectacles in the story with unstinted magnificence; it has been directed with skill and it is played by a company of distinguished artists whose performances score the points of the story with delightful certainty. And it is, first and last, a rapid-fire story of thrilling adventure and action, with the whole so bound together and interwoven with humor that the audience's laughter is an accompaniment to every scene. "A Connecticut Yankee" is that thing which is best expressed in the one word of entertainment. And it is entertainment one hundred per cent. pure and unalloyed.

Danaher Agency Sell Old Landmark.
Through the agency of Frank D. Danaher, Mrs. George S. Draper has sold to Frank Becker and R. Goldstein her real estate, located at 80, 82, 92 Water street. It is a two and one-half story brick building with a frontage of about 24 feet on Water street, adjoining the "Prover" property on the west and the Merchants National bank and engine house property on the north. The property has been conserved for the greater portion of the last century by the well known firm of Rawson & Whipple, which firm sold the property some years ago to the late George S. Draper, who conducted business last in the standard. The new purchasers anticipate remodeling the building for business purposes.

GOSHEN

The temperature of the water is now tried quite often these midsummer days at the "ole swimmin' hole."
Another steam shovel has been put into service, making two, on the state road work. Both are shoveling on grades with in a half mile of each other. The melodious sound of the steam whistles of both machines resounds up the valley, announcing the hours of labor, morning, noon and evening.
A large ship was noted travelling toward the northeast at a fast rate of speed before the stiff southwest breeze Sunday afternoon. The birdman was about a mile up from terra firma.
